

FREE GUIDE

The Little-Known Tip That Saves New Residents Real Money

One overlooked detail in the relocation process routinely saves new residents thousands of dollars on the cost of the move itself. Almost nobody asks about it up front.

1 Personal effects brought in around the time you establish residency can qualify for import duty relief

Cayman charges import duty on most goods brought onto the island — furniture, vehicles, electronics, the works — and it adds up fast if you're shipping a household. New residents relocating their primary residence can potentially qualify for duty relief on personal and household effects, provided the paperwork and timing are handled correctly relative to when residency is established.

2 Why timing is everything here

The relief generally applies to goods brought in within a defined window around your move — ship your container too early or too late, before the right paperwork is filed, and you can lose the benefit entirely and pay full duty on everything.

3 This is also where people leave money on the table without realizing it

Most people either don't know this exists, or find out about it after their shipment has already landed and duty has already been assessed — at which point it's too late to fix.

Planning a shipment or a move date? Message Seb on WhatsApp (+1 345 555 0134) before you book anything — getting the timing right on this one detail can be worth thousands.

This guide is general information for planning purposes only — it is not tax, legal, or immigration advice. Rules referenced here change over time and vary by individual circumstance. Always confirm specifics with Seb and a licensed professional before making a decision.